

Elizabeth Preston, PhD

Elizabeth Preston has been described as “passionate,” “enthusiastic,” and as an instructor “who truly cares about her work” and clients. She’s been a writing instructor for over eight years, has had success in numerous writing contests, and has additional education in psychology and economic policy.

Elizabeth has consistently received glowing reviews as an instructor and has worked with clients from various fields including: accounting, engineering, mathematics, information technology, biology, geology, environmental science, neuroscience, psychology, medicine, law, economics, sociology, history, and education.

